What: Advanced college women's basketball officiating camp

When: June 19 & 20, 2026 (Friday begin 930a, finish Saturday at noon)

Why: Have you ever wondered how officials advance in this great and exciting avocation other than doing a great job and perhaps establishing a solid reputation? Have you had aspirations to break into the college ranks? If you currently work college ball, is your schedule where you would like it to be or are there other conferences you want to work in? Are you still waiting for the Conference Tournament assignment? Regardless of where you are today, do you have any goals or dreams to get to the "next level within a conference or beyond"? Are you ready to move up the ladder to another tier that you feel you are ready for, but need the skills and opportunity to make this happen? Well, this might be the camp for you!! You will get better if you come to this camp through understanding philosophies, film breakdown and on-court skills that set you apart from the average official.

Caliber of Play: High School Boys Wisconsin Yearbook Tournament, 18-minute running halves with games played every 50 minutes.

Clinicians: All D2/D3 women's basketball conference supervisors from the Midwest have been invited and most have committed to assisting me in developing your game to the next level.
